“The CLF® is unique in the financial services industry in that it's the only program that focuses on preparing designees for leadership rather than just management roles.”

— Jim Petersen, Ph.D., Roger Hull/James S. Bingay Chair of Leadership, CLF® Program Director
CLF® Roadmap to Success

Your journey can begin or end with earning your CLF®. Because students enroll in the program as preparation for an expanded leadership role, many financial services professionals earn their CLF® after acquiring other designations. It’s an integral component of a lifelong learning journey with The American College of Financial Services.
CLF® Education Prerequisites

There are no prerequisite courses required before you can begin the CLF® Program other than a high school diploma or the equivalent; however, three years of relevant business experience accumulated up to four years before completion of the program are required to use the designation.

To receive the CLF® designation, you must:

1. Successfully complete the six required courses
2. Agree to comply with The American College Code of Ethics and Procedures
3. Participate in the annual Professional Recertification Program (PRP)
Expand Your Opportunities

By choosing The American College of Financial Services as your life-long learning partner, you’ll benefit from:

- Extensive professional network of financial professionals and leaders
- Ready-to-use knowledge delivered by industry-leading experts
- Interactive community with frequent professional development events
- Advanced planning skills and real-world application not delivered elsewhere
- Modern education through the latest in mobile-friendly, e-learning technology
- Prestigious pedigree of nearly 100 years of academic excellence
